SOME OF THE TROUBLES FACING THE ITALIANS IN ETHIOPIA

How would you like to march all day through a torrid heat and have to wait in line for a drink of water which may be muddy and warm? Italian troops in Ethiopia have encountered such difficulties, as can be seen above. Troops are seen in this picture lining up at a water hole at Dolo, near Mekele, to get their rations of water.

THE MOST DISCUSSED SOCCER MATCH IN YEARS

Despite occasional anti-German outbursts among the soccer fans in the Mother Country, the international match between England and Germany was a distinct success. A huge crowd turned out at White Hart Lane, London, and both teams played a clever, friendly game. Here is shown Hans Jacob, the German goalkeeper, punching the ball away from the danger zone, while British players hover all round him. The English team won by three goals to nil.

MUCH TRAVELLED HOCKEY STAR

Although Connor Weiland is one of the best centres in the National Hockey League, he never seems to stay with a team very long before switching. Connor played with the Red Wings last year, but this season is playing for Boston. Incidentally he holds the all-time record for point scoring. A record which may never be broken.

WALES DEFEATS FRANCE IN INTERNATIONAL GAME

When the French rugby team travelled to Llanelli, Wales, to meet a Welsh international team, the players found the opposition too stiff to overcome. Here is seen a Welsh player tackled when he attempted to break through the French defense, but Wales beat France by 41 points to 7.

ANOTHER GIANT LINER TO BE SENT TO THE SCRAP HEAP

The 14-year-old Majestic will shortly be broken up for scrap iron. If reports from London are correct, the m.s. Majestic, formerly the imperator, was a product of German shipyards, and was intended as Germany's 14th for the blue ribbon of trans-Atlantic supremacy. Viceroyed at the outbreak of the World War, the giant ship was taken over by Great Britain on reparations account and was completed and fitted out in British shipyards. She does not appear on the sailing schedule after February 13 of next year, and this suggests she is headed for the same destination as the Mauretania and Olympic.

CANADIAN NICKEL INDUSTRY TO BE EXPANDED

A $10,000,000 addition to the smelter of the International Nickel Company of Canada's plant at Copper Cliff, Ont., will commence soon and be completed in about a year. The expansion calls for the construction of another high stack similar to the one above, which is 510 feet in height and the tallest in the British Empire, and several new converters and reverberatory furnaces. What One Girl Wore:
By Betty Brownlee

The military trend which ushered in the fall season with such fanfare continues to evidence itself in new guises. Footwear, for instance, has been adopted to this mode and shoes for walking or sportswear on the new lines are not only the most practical things designed but are the easiest of maintenance.

The latest sports and walking shoes are so designed that they are high and tight about the ankle. They feature low heels, thick soles, square toes and rather high tops, with frequently high tongues under simple leathers.

Such a shoe is illustrated this week in the upper portion of the panel. This one is in dark red leather, faced in black. The vogue for colored shoes gains in impetus, and in fabrics such as calf, buckskin, antelope and reindeer (which is waterproof) are so irresistible.

A woman will want a different pair to match every costume. The shoe illustrated is grand for country and campus wear, so it will find great favor with the college girl.

There is an increasing trend away from spiked heels, with women now enjoying the comfort of low and medium heels, but there are occasions when the higher type are really needed to complete a particularly dressy costume.

An afternoon pump of black suede is illustrated in the center of the panel. The decorative little webbing are of grosgrain and are set in, matching the bow at the instep.

Below is a smart toecap sandal for evening wear in silver brocade fabric, with cut-outs and an ankle strap in the modern manner.

of these birds form a choir and in Indian style. The Seven Billy Bluffs. No one would call these poets, so let's get on to K. (1800 above for longer and snicker).

L. for Love-Bird. Sorry, but the moon is not full enough for me to feel sentimental enough to do justice to such a subject.

And M for monkeys you're already had.

I've just asked Joyce what animal's name begins with an N. For I was beginning to feel the symptoms of brain-fog. Her answer was prompt—"Nuts!"

Let's play another game. This is a wueneren cross-word puzzle. A-I have H. Parrot? I know that about you, but now my space is filled, so this must be continued in my next.

Don't fail to miss this great new serial running The Tribune—It outstays Nelson's "Wild Animals I Have Known" (and is a much safer subject, for I wrote an article under such a heading. I'm afraid I'd be had up for libel).

So, dear readers, look out next week for Chapter II—"Parrots: Their Lives and Loves."

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE
At all Christian Science churches next Sunday the subject of the lesson will be "The Christian Science." The following is one of the scriptural quotations contained in the lesson: "The word of the Lord is perfect, converting the soul; the testimony of the Lord is sure, making wise the simple; the statutes of the Lord are right, rejoicing the heart; the commandment of the Lord is pure, enlightening the eyes." (Psalm 119:7-8)

One of the beautiful passages from the scriptures, by Mary Baker Eddy, is as follows (page 153): "It has been said, and truly, that humanity must be science and science must be Christianity, else one or the other is imperfect or untrue, and they are alike in demonstration."

STAR RELIVES OWN CAREER
IN NEW COLUMBIA FILM HIT

Does today's American girl have any chance of winning fame in an artistic career against the competition of foreign artists?

In "One Night of Love," showing at the Capitol Theatre next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, December 30, 31, and January 1, during the New Year's week holiday, you will see the grief and struggle such an ambition involves. You will see, in glamorous foreign settings, the adventure and beauty that makes such a struggle worthwhile.

The story of "One Night of Love" is largely the true story of Grace Moore, star of the picture, a Tennessee girl who made a spectacular struggle upward to fame in musical comedy and grand opera. In "One Night of Love," Miss Moore emerges as a sensational motion picture personality, a glorious, dazzling film figure.

Miss Moore ran away from her adoring parents to study voice in New York City. She worked in a Greenwich Village cafe, sang her songs in a French, and Spanish music form the charming and thrilling background for this elegant romantic motion picture. The handsome Tullio Carmichael, Italian born screen lover, plays the romantic opposite the famous singer, Victor Schertzinger directed.

THRILLING ROMANCE IN "IT HAPPENED ONE NIGHT"

Adding to the interesting program at the Capitol Theatre on December 30, 31, and January 1, Clark Gable and Claudette Colbert are featured in a second thrilling romantic picture, in which there is high-blowing to Heaven on the royal road of Romance! A poor

MELODY AND BEAUTY AROUND IN GB FILM

A treat for all music lovers, and one that abounds in melody and beauty, is provided by the GB production, "My Heart Is Calling," starring Jan Kiepura, in the noted tenor, showing at the Capitol Theatre during the latter part of New Year's week—Thursday, Friday and Saturday, January 2, 3, 4. During the progress of the story, which deals with the misadventures of a nearly-blind travelling opera company, Mr. Kiepura shows generously his repertoire, including three arias from "La Traviata" and two up-to-date ballads, one of the themes song from which the picture's title is taken. "My Heart Is Calling" is the other, a singularly seductive selection in waltz time, "You, Me and Love." It is with the latter score that he waxes and wins his leading lady, Marta Kaurich, who dances and sings in unison with her lover's musical pleading in one of the most exquisitely staged scenes ever filmed.

Five Mile Creek School Put On Good Program

A very good program was put on by the pupils of Five Mile Creek at their Christmas concert last Monday evening. Reeve Joseph Tinsington was in the chair.

The program: "O Canada," united scholars; recitation, "Not Too Little To Help," Ella May and Henry; play, "The Little Wagon," grades 1 and 2; play, "How Girls Study," junior room; recitation, "Toys He Doesn't Like," Helen; play, "Bertha as a Teacher," senior room; song, "Home on the Range," Colleen and Betty; recitation, "Worried Boy," Cecil; dialogue, "Runaway Stuck," junior room; play, "Christmas," grades 1 and 2; play, "A Careless Mother," Fernie and William; song, "Jolly Old Santa Claus," senior girls; recitation, "Babushka," Audrey; play, "Christmas Journey," junior room; play, "Am No Particular," Albert and Edgar; monologue, "Beside's Christmas Hint," Elsie; song, "This 'Tis I," Greta; recitation, "Mother's Joy," Greta; recitation, "Christmas Visitor," Edward; play, "The Little Wagon," grades 1 and 2; play, "The Turkey's Lament," De- wey; play, "The Joke on the Joker," junior room; song, "Roll Along, Cowboy Wagon," by the girls; play, "Aunt Serena," Ethel, Arthur and Ernest; and "Save the King."

The program was a very good one, and to mention everything worthy would take up too much space.

Ella was given an encore and for her second piece she sang "It Was Only a Beautiful Picture."

The words of Edward's piece were exceptionally good.

Ella's piece, in Scotch of course and very cleverly done, brought out that ever prominent trait, canny after eating.

Edwards introduced his act, he had tendered a nickel for a two-bit bet, but he said, "Ain't no particular."

Santa was very ably impersonated by Master Albert Rieger, whose duties he fulfilled as for the first time in many years, there was no present beyond a few personal ones. However, bags of candy, nuts, oranges and apples were very freely distributed to all present.

The decorations were very nicely arranged and the tree especially was very pretty and artistic.

After lunch the dancing folk enjoyed a few hours of dancing. Mel Tallon and Bill Remple supplied the music.

NOTICE TO TAX-PAYERS

Tax-payers are reminded that the end of the year is the best opportunity to pay taxes without a penalty being made.

An appeal is being made to tax-payers to pay their taxes by Tuesday, December 31, as this is the end of the year for a financial year, thus saving themselves 4% penalty and at the same time helping the government.

Also Japan and the irregulars in outer Mongolia have clashed with the Chinese. The Japanese are a protectorate of Soviet Russia, this may make the hot border over.

HOPEWELL, Va., Dec. 23.—Fourteen persons met death in the icy Appomattox River Sunday when a bus plunged through an open drawbridge.

ASPEN RIDGE

Aspen Ridge Xmas Tree and Concert Draw Full House

ASPEN RIDGE, Dec. 24.—A full house turned out to the children's Christmas tree entertainment, held in the schoolhouse on Monday, December 22. The concert itself was a distinct success, particularly the singing songs, in which all the children have come along wonderfully. The singing was also good in spite of an epidemic of colds going through the school.

The program reflected much credit on the choir, Mrs. Crook, who was presented with a set of table knives by the school children, along with a neat little address.

As usual, Santa Claus appeared and after complaining about bare roads and the necessity of driving a wagon, he distributed presents and candy to 85 children. Santa is everlastingly wonder to the younger ones, but older kids don't believe all they see.

School opens again on Monday, January 6.

A leap year dance will be held in the schoolhouse on Friday, January 3, and will be managed entirely by the girls. Prices are 25 cents; ladies bring lunch or 25 cents.

EAST SIDE FINALLY WINS

The Aspen Ridge Bridge Club met in conflict in the schoolhouse on Friday, December 20, when the East Side conquered the West Side by a

BRITAIN MECHANIZES ENTIRE EXISTING CAVALRY DIVISIONS

LONDON, Dec. 22.—Great Britain today announced a far-reaching army reorganization scheme in the face of louder war talk over Europe. This move, following dismally steps to insure aid from other nations should Italy attack, Britain's ships in the Mediterranean, includes mechanization of the entire existing cavalry divisions. It envisions units in Egypt, close to the theatre of the Italo-Ethiopian war and adjacent to Italy's African colony of Libya.

British officials completed military preparations in Egypt as the army reorganization and mechanization orders were issued here. Also the Egyptian government ordered army reservists now in training to be retained for another six months.

The orders involved not only all the cavalry of the British army but the conversion of a number of infantry units into machine gun and rifle battalions. Two-horse brigades and divisional troops with a tank brigade will become a mechanized and mobile division.

"PIPE DREAMS"

Another Christmas Day has passed, and the older we get the more we realize what a wonderful thing it is. This birthday of Christ, now nineteen hundred and thirty-five years ago, and although born in a manger, of lowly birth, no other life since the beginning of time has exercised such an influence for good. Truly the spirit of Christ exists at Christmas-time, making us, one and all, more human and more friendly towards our fellow-men.

Prospective churches or creeds, did we one and all, even try to live as he lived, there would be no more wars or rumors of wars, and every day would be as Christmas, and peace on earth, goodwill toward men would be a universal custom.

A pity that along with this season's spirit of good fellowship, the Mad Dog of Europe, Mussolini, carries on his massacre of women and children under the cloak of civilization! We cannot escape today's radio that France is mobilizing her troops and navy for the Mediterranean, to back Britain's desire and the League's, to stop the war. A mighty show of force would cause Italy to halt its peace, without shot being fired.

A United States senator has this version—his own, of course—why the British are so much apprehensive of wishing to hand Italy a slice of Ethiopia.

His version is that Britain was afraid of an air raid from Italy. On no Senator. You are all wet. Britain had air raids from Germany for some four years and you couldn't keep the people of the nation. They wanted to see it. ...

Developing his argument for individualism, Mr. Spencer held that if the government were to take the lead in it would not solve the problem. Years ago the problem was to create enough to go around, but today people are forced into idleness due to rapid production.

Mr. Spencer then pointed out that the progress of the world in art and material things was due to "Liberty" (initiative and not through government assistance. From the point of economic development, the speaker observed that it would not be a disadvantage, as experience had taught that the cost of production was much less than far more than under private operation.
